Obeying Orders.
 R. ELLIOTT, while at his country home, gave orders that no one should be allowed to step over a particular fine plot of grass except his cow. He left a new man in charge, with very strict instructions to that effect.

The following day the mistress of the house was out for a game of tennis at a neighboring place, and wishing to make a short cut, walked across the grass from one path to another. When about half way across she was hailed by the man in charge.

"No one to pass here, ma'am," he called in no gentle terms.

Mrs. Elliott drew herself up in considerable anger.

"Do you know who I am?" she demanded.

"No, ma'am," replied the man impassively. "I do not know who you are; but I know that you are not Mr. Elliott's cow, and nobody else is permitted to walk on the grass."

DOESN'T IT AGGRAVATE YOU

When you have only one pair of glasses, which you need constantly, to have a mishap and break a lens, and then have to worry along without glasses until the broken lens can be replaced?

And it seems that such exasperating accidents have a habit of happening just at the most inopportune times—when one is out-of-town, picnicking, shooting—in fact any time when it is inconvenient.

AN EXTRA PAIR on hand for emergencies immensely reduces exas-peration, conserves the cuss words, and instead of just evaporating for want of strong enough language to express your chagrin, you can put yourself on the back with a cheerful grin—and put on the other pair.

WE CAN DUPLICATE ANY LENS FROM THE ORIGINAL WITHOUT PRESCRIPTION, or a broken lens, if you have the pieces.
